

Bloom Bubble

The same flowers everyone sells — floating inside a balloon, priced like a luxury gift.

What It Is

A florist concept where fresh bouquets are arranged inside a clear, inflated balloon instead of paper wrap. The transparent dome shows the flowers from every angle, instantly reads as premium, and creates a giftable "wow" moment for birthdays, anniversaries, proposals, and events. It's the Korean "balloon bouquet" trend, brought to your city before anyone else.

How It Makes Money

You sell balloon bouquets at a big markup over standard wrapped flowers because the presentation justifies the price. Revenue comes from walk-in/online gift orders, event and wedding packages, corporate gifting accounts, and same-day local delivery fees. The flowers cost the same as any florist's — you're charging for the format and the photo moment.

Startup Costs

- Balloon-stuffing machine (expands the balloon so a bouquet fits inside): $120–$350 (Alibaba: "balloon stuffing expander machine")
- Clear 18–24" PVC/bobo balloons in bulk: $0.20–$0.50 each (Alibaba: "clear bobo balloon bulk")
- Helium tank or air-fill stand: $150–$400
- Fresh flowers (recurring from local wholesaler/market): $40–$120 per batch
- Ribbon, LED fairy lights, bases, packaging: $200–$400
- Cooler/fridge for flower storage: $300–$700 (used)
- Branding, Shopify/booking page, signage: $400–$900
- First-month local ads: $400–$800
- Total to launch: $1,500–$4,000

The Numbers

- Cost per balloon bouquet: flowers $12–$22 + balloon/ribbon/lights $2–$4 = $14–$26
- Sell price: $55–$120 (deluxe LED versions $130+)
- Profit per bouquet: $35–$95
- Add delivery fee: +$8–$15
- Sell 12–18 bouquets/day on weekends, 6–10/day midweek → ~250/month = $10,000–$18,000 profit/month, spiking hard around Valentine's, Mother's Day, and graduation.

How To Start

1. Buy a balloon-stuffing machine and a bulk pack of clear balloons; practice fitting bouquets cleanly inside.
2. Line up a local flower wholesaler or farmers' market for fresh, cheap stems 2–3x a week.
3. Develop 4–5 signature designs at set price points ($55 / $75 / $95 / $120 / LED deluxe).
4. Shoot bright, scroll-stopping photos and reels — the product sells almost entirely on visuals.
5. Set up Instagram ordering + a simple Shopify/booking page with same-day local delivery.
6. Offer event and proposal packages and pitch wedding planners and event venues.

7. Launch with a limited "first in the city" promo to drive shares and tagged photos.

Where To Get Customers

Instagram and TikTok (reels of the float/reveal); local same-day delivery searches; event planners, venues, and wedding vendors; corporate gifting and realtor closing-gift accounts; pop-up tables at malls and markets on peak gifting weekends.

Pro Tips

- Make every bouquet around holidays — Valentine's, Mother's Day, and graduation can do a month's revenue in a weekend, so pre-sell and cap order slots.
- Add a $15 LED fairy-light upgrade; it costs you under $1 and photographs incredibly, lifting your average order value.
- Keep flowers in a cooler and assemble to order — balloon bouquets only last a few days, so sell same-day and never pre-build inventory.
