

TwinTalk AI Avatars

Clone yourself once — let your AI twin take the calls, the support, and the training.

What It Is

TwinTalk builds and deploys real-time, talking AI avatars for businesses using tools like Runway Characters. Instead of a pre-rendered clip, the client gets a video version of themselves (or a brand character) that holds live conversations — answering questions with lip sync, gestures, and natural movement on a video call. You sell it as a virtual assistant, customer-service rep, or always-on training presenter that runs on a business's website or kiosk.

How It Makes Money

You charge a setup fee to build and brand the avatar, plus a monthly hosting/management retainer to keep it running, updated, and answering. The model is high-margin software-enabled service: tool costs are small, but a talking AI "employee" that works 24/7 is easily worth a few hundred to a few thousand a month to the buyer. Customers are coaches and course creators, real estate teams, clinics and dental offices, e-commerce brands, SaaS companies, and any business drowning in repetitive questions or wanting on-brand training content.

Startup Costs

- Runway / real-time avatar platform subscription: $35-$95/month
- AI voice cloning (ElevenLabs or similar): $22-$99/month
- Knowledge-base / chatbot backend to feed the avatar answers: $0-$50/month
- Web hosting for the demo + client deployments (Coolify): ~$10-$20/month
- Recording gear for capturing a clean avatar likeness (decent webcam/mic, good lighting): $100-$300
- Portfolio site + branding: $0-$150
- Outreach tools: $30-$80/month
- Total realistic startup: $200-$600 — pure service, no inventory or sourcing.

The Numbers

- Cost to build + host one client avatar: ~$40-$80/month in tools and your time
- Setup fee: $500-$2,500 per avatar build
- Monthly retainer: $200-$1,000 per client (hosting, updates, answer tuning)
- Profit per client: roughly $400-$2,200 upfront plus $160-$920/month recurring
- Monthly projection: 8 retained clients at $400/month = $3,200 recurring + 2 new builds/month at ~$1,200 = ~$5,600/month revenue; net $4,500-$5,000/month, scaling past $10,000/month as the retainer base compounds.

How To Start

1. Build your own talking avatar first in Runway Characters and put it live on your site as the proof-of-concept demo.
2. Pick one vertical to specialize in (coaches and real estate convert fast — both sell themselves on personality).
3. Create a repeatable workflow: capture likeness, clone voice, load the client's FAQ/scripts as the knowledge base, embed on their site.

4. Package it: Setup ($1,000) + Standard retainer ($400/month) + Premium ($1,000/month with monthly content updates).
5. Record a 60-second "talk to my AI twin" demo and use it as your entire cold-outreach pitch.
6. DM and email 20 prospects a day; offer to build a free 2-minute demo avatar of THEM to close the meeting.
7. Onboard, collect a testimonial video, and lock the client into the monthly retainer.

Where To Get Customers

- Instagram, LinkedIn, and X DMs to coaches, consultants, and course creators
- Real estate teams and brokerages (avatar = 24/7 listing assistant)
- Dental, medical, and law offices needing after-hours FAQ handling
- E-commerce and SaaS brands wanting on-site support avatars
- Agencies and web designers as a white-label add-on you can resell through
- Your own viral "talk to AI face-to-face" content — the hook does the prospecting

Pro Tips

- Sell the free demo avatar of the prospect themselves — seeing their own AI twin talk back is an instant close that no slide deck can match.
- Anchor pricing against a human hire: a part-time receptionist or VA costs $1,500-$3,000/month, so a $400-$1,000 always-on AI rep is an easy yes.
- Make retainers sticky by owning the deployment and updates — if the avatar lives on your hosting and you tune its answers monthly, clients don't churn and don't try to DIY it.